FIGHT AGAINST YELLOW JACK SUCCEEDING

Although no Disposition is Shown to Lull the Public to False Sense of Security.

By Associated Press.

New Orleans, Aug. 22.—While the leaders in the fight against yellow fever feel that the struggle is succeeding beyond their expectations, there is no disposition to lull the public into a false sense of security lest there shall be a relaxation of the efforts which it is essential that every household shall make if the present control of the disease is to be maintained.

"The fight has not yet been won," said Professor Metz, of Tulane University, today in urging every citizen to keep up his enthusiasm. "We are only on the foothills; the mountains are yet to be scaled; the fortifications are yet to be taken. In the next two or three weeks it will be known whether the disease can be stamped out or checked. If it can be stamped out, it will be a miracle. That it can be held in check is believed. But the people of New Orleans must exert themselves to the utmost."

With the deaths, however running into the hundreds and rapidly approaching the thousands at this time in 1878 and the new cases of genuine yellow fever approximating 200 against less than a dozen deaths daily now, there is considered to be every justification for the encouragement which Dr. White announces he feels over the situation.

Especially encouraging is the situation above Canal street. The disease has struggled desperately to gain a foothold in that section but has failed. There have been a considerable number of cases, but they are widely scattered and there is not a pest of them to be found anywhere from Canal to the upper limits of the parish.

Some days ago President Souther wrote to the railroads asking them to put on small trains to some of the towns which are in sore distress because communication is cut off. General Superintendent Cushing of the Southern Pacific has written a reply that the road is now running trains at a heavy loss to afford service for non-infected localities. Travel, however is so light that these trains are earning less than one-fourth of what it costs to run them and additional facilities cannot be furnished.

The cases reported from St. Bernard parish, adjoining New Orleans, show how difficult it is to keep track of sickness in the country. One of the cases was that of an Italian woman but her husband concealed the fact and treated her himself. Yesterday he found her dying and summoned a physician. When the physician arrived she was dead of yellow fever leaving seven children, the oldest ten years and the youngest five months. The oldest child was also found to be infected.

The announcement of Surgeon-General Wyman in a telegram to President Souther that it is impossible to take adequate precautions at Colon to disinfect vessels and that every vessel must be detained at the port of arrival five days is expected temporarily to transfer all Colon trade heretofore passing through southern gateways to New York. Already fruit carrying vessels which touch at the Panama port have been barred.

Bishop Sessums of the Episcopal church, who is taking an active part in the education campaign, is arranging a series of mass meetings in the part of a strong pool working on the long side, prices remained especially strong throughout the day. Foreign cables were strong and satisfactory. Good support was given the market on any slight reaction. The market seems to have two well regulated active interests operating both for and against an advance, but the operators appear to favor higher values. The weather map was generally dry today with a continuation of very high temperatures in Texas, and only moderately lower throughout Alabama and Georgia.

The government weekly report issued at noon, was from our point of view, a very unfavorable one as it stated that the crop as a whole, has suffered deterioration, and while some improvement is noted in some districts, it is not expansive enough to relieve the first statement and gives ground for believing a serious situation is developing. Reports from the south indicate that without a doubt the crop has deteriorated in August, beyond all anticipations and this decline, from our point of view, will be greater than expected and coming at a time when crop is undergoing a fruitage stage, can easily become disastrous. These reflections and conditions favor higher prices, even beyond present high level.

"JIM CROW" LAW ON ITS THIRD READING

Ordinance Will Be Called Up Tonight at the Meeting of City Council for a Vote.

The "Jim Crow" ordinance will come up in the city council tonight for its third and final reading, and when his is done a vote will be taken. The ordinance was introduced a short time since, and has already been read twice, and as the regular meeting of the council is to be held tonight, it is more than probable that it will be passed, unless some member desires to amend the same.

From appearances all members of the council are favorable to separating the races in the street cars, and will vote favorably when the roll is called.

During the past few months, or since the bill passed by the legislature was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, the negroes have been patronizing the cars more liberally, the boycott having been declared off at a public meeting.

Another important measure which will come up tonight will be an ordinance providing that all sidewalks constructed or rebuilt in the future be of stone, cement or some similar material, and that no wooden walk be allowed in any section of the city, where it is necessary for them to be rebuilt. Mayor Bliss is strongly agitating this question, claiming that wooden walks are breeding places for mosquitoes, stagnant water forms under them, and they are a danger and menace to health.

Several other matters of more than passing importance will be discussed at the session tonight.

American Manners.

The average American man is so much more polite, agreeable and considerate to the average woman than all other men seem rough and indifferent by comparison. In this department if in no other the American man has no rival. He is the best mannered creature in the world to the casual human being—especially female human being—he brushes elbows with in the course of the day's march. He doesn't use half as many "Thank you's" as the French or bow and smile so much, but he will give himself trouble to open doors, to hall carriages, to get up and offer his seat in omnibuses, to help paroled women on to trains and hold the baby while the mother helps off the rest of her offspring.—New York Weekly.

Mustache Versus Music.

Anton Rubinstein had this to say in reference to women artists: "I think ladies ought never to study music as an art. At least they ought not to take up the time of teachers who are able to teach and make true artists. And I will tell you why. There is no question but there are twenty musical ladies to one musical man, and my own experience is that they learn more quickly, have more poetry and, in fact, are more diligent pupils than men. But what is the inevitable result? When a young lady has become a perfect artist some handsome mustache comes along, and she chooses the handsome mustache in preference to art."

The Muddled Friend.

De Chapple—if there's any one nuisance I hate more than another it's a fellow who is always going around introducing people. There's Goodheart, for instance. Bouttown—What's he been doing? De Chapple—The idiot! The other day he introduced me to a man I owed money to, and I'd been owing it so long he'd forgotten all about me. Now I'll have to pay up or be sued.—London Telegraph.

Inference.

Physician—Yes, sir, my opinion is that one-half the diseases that afflict humanity are due to overeating. Friend (reflectively)—It may be—may be. Now I think of it, it is months since any one was sick at my boarding house.—New York Weekly.

Resources Exhausted.

"Walter, this tablecloth is not clean."
"No, sir. But I dunno what we can do about it. We've turned it twice already."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

leading Episcopal churches with a view to aiding the authorities in the work. The bishop has had additional work thrust upon him through the misfortune of Dean Wells of Christ church cathedral. Mrs. Wells was stricken with the fever ten days ago and has been very seriously ill and the dean has been in constant attendance at her bedside.

Governor Blanchard is seeking to straighten out some of the difficulties in the country parishes resulting from the stoppage of trains. Tensas and East Carroll parishes have practically tied up the Memphis, Helena and Louisiana R. R., because there are two cases at Tardiah in Madison. The governor has also successfully interceded with the authorities of Bossie parish in behalf of the operation of the trains of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company.

SEVERE INJURY BY STING OF STINGAREE

Leland Caswell Stepped on Poisonous Animal and Was Painfully Injured Yesterday.

Young Leland Caswell, of 320 East Zarragosa street, is suffering from a painful wound in the foot, inflicted yesterday by a stingaree which the young man stepped on while wading in the water.

The young man, who is fifteen years old, was out with some comrades after fish. They had run their net around a good bunch of fish and several of the boys were in the water hauling it in when Caswell stepped on the stingaree and the latter struck his foot with its poisonous barbed tail.

The injured boy was at once taken to his home and a physician called. The wound in his foot is about an inch deep and the flesh is badly lacerated. The foot is now swollen to enormous proportions and is causing intense pain. For a time it was feared that lock-jaw had set in.

The sting of one of these ugly animals is very dangerous, and while young Caswell will probably recover, he will have to suffer a great deal of pain before the poison is all out of his system.

BLISS INJUNCTION CASE IS AGAIN POSTPONED.

On account of the fact that Chas. M. Coston, court commissioner, was serving yesterday as one of the inspectors in the special bond election, the case of R. J. Brent vs. Chas. H. Bliss, to secure a temporary injunction, was again postponed, but has been set for this morning.

Blount & Blount will appear for Mr. Brent and J. J. Sullivan for Mr. Bliss.

Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty-cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering." ### CATHERINE THE GREAT.

An Odd Woman Was This Empress of the Russians.

A recent writer says of Catherine the Great, empress of Russia from the year 1762 to 1796:

"She rose at 6 and lit her own fire. Her table was ideally simple. From the reproach of overeating and over-drinking she was free. Though she could not sing a note, she and Prince Dashkoff, who could sing no better, occasionally performed in a concert. A sudden burst of the most exalted and ridiculous discordant tones was the consequence, one seconding the other, with scientific shrugs and all the solemn, self complacent airs and grimaces of musicians. From this perhaps she passed to a cat concert and imitated the purring of a cat in the most droll and ludicrous manner, always taking care to add appropriate, half comic, half sentimental words, which she invented for the occasion, or else, splitting like a cat in a passion, with her back up, she suddenly boxed the first person in her way, making up her head into a paw and mewing outrageously."

When playing whist one night Catherine could not get her page to answer the bell. "After she had rung twice, again without effect, she left the room, looking daggers, and did not reappear for a considerable time. The company supposed that the unfortunate page was destined to Siberia or at least the knout. As a matter of fact, Catherine on entering the ante-chamber found the page, like his betters, busy at whist. "When the bell rang he happened to have so interesting a hand that he could not make up his mind to quit it. Now, what did the empress do? She dispatched the page on her errand and then quietly sat down to hold his cards until he should return."
